WHO WE ARE

The Appalachian has been Appalachian State University's student-run news organization since 1934. We publish both in print and online, promote our content through social media, and send out a weekly newsletter during the academic year.

We are the recipients of more than 50 prestigious and competitive state, regional and national awards during the 2020-2021 academic year for our content, including reporting, photography, advertising, design, video, podcasts, and more.

We strive to provide fair and accurate news for the campus community; to inform, entertain and create a forum for ideas; to provide an outlet for readers' opinions; to be a champion for student, faculty, staff, and community interests; and to remain editorially independent, exercise and ensure First Amendment rights.

The Appalachian is student-managed and student-run, meaning student editors, managers and staffers are responsible for all content in the publication.

THE APPALACHIAN'S EDITORIAL BOARD

The Appalachian's staff consists of students across a variety of majors including journalism, communication, business and more. The business office and the editorial board work together along with the help of their adviser Allison Bennett Dyche.

SPECIAL EDITIONS

BEST OF BOONE & ORIENTATION GUIDE

For seven years, The Appalachian has asked you to decide your Best of Boone. From categories like best burger, best local band and best professor, our readers crown their elite Boone and App State picks. Students, faculty, staff, alumni, parents and people who love the High Country cast their votes in the annual Best of Boone special edition.

This edition is a great place to advertise for your business to be seen by thousands of viewers! It's also a great way to say thank you to the community if your business wins a category.

This special edition comes out around April/May each year. It's always highly anticipated as voters and businesses excitedly look forward to seeing the results. This edition also serves as our Orientation Guide for new App State students and families! More than 3,000 copies are distributed during summer orientation sessions, to help new Mountaineers find their way to the best that Boone and campus have to offer.

GRADUATION EDITION

The Graduation Edition celebrates App State grads, and highlights stories and events to commemorate the past four years, and also to celebrate what's to come!

We offer Grad Wishes in this issue, as a way for families, friends, advisors, professors and more to recognize their graduates. This issue also includes a full listing of all of the graduating students for spring and summer commencements. We hand out copies of this issue during the spring Commencement Weekend, so thousands of graduates and families pick up copies and hold onto them as commemorative keepsakes!

This edition is a great place to advertise your business, department or organization! Whether you choose to say congrats to the grads, or have a traditional ad, your business, organization or department are sure to be seen!

Advertisement space in Special Editions fills up quickly, so talk to your Ad Rep about claiming your spot as early as you can!

DEADLINES

Printed, laminated and ready to distribute posters are due at least 14 business days prior to placement on newsstands.

SPONSORED CONTENT

The Appalachian can help tell your story, in your own way, through sponsored content. We are the only student-run news publication on campus, and we're read by everyone — students, faculty, staff, alumni, parents & family members, community members, etc. We have unparalleled reach into the university, and nearly 90 years of history serving both the campus and Boone communities as a credible and consistent source of relevant news.

Sponsored content pieces will be similar in style to editorial content, but will be labeled as an advertisement. The piece will be written by your business, but we will work with you on designing how it will look in a layout.

The standard rates for sponsored content are listed below. Questions? Please reach out to one of our business office managers or the adviser and we can walk you through the process.

SUPPORT THE APPALACHIAN

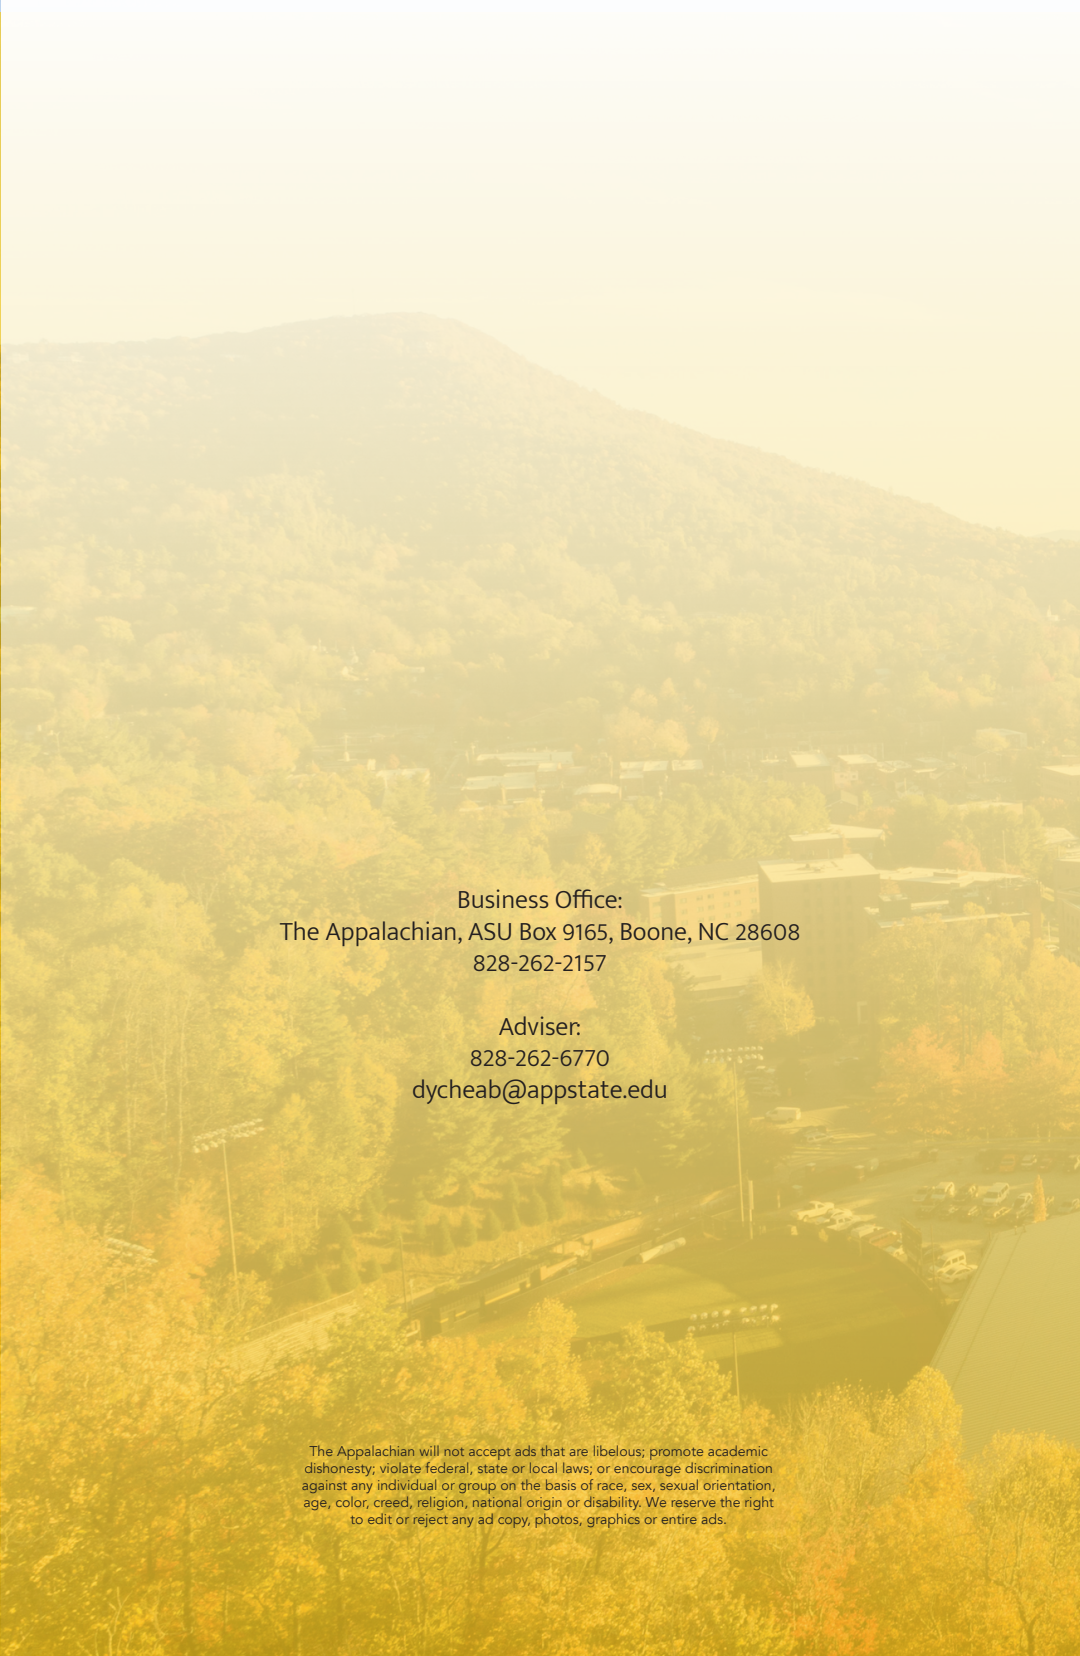

Do you want to show your support for The Appalachian and our student journalists, but you don't necessarily need traditional advertising? We can work with you on that!

We have a variety of options available to on-campus departments and individuals, as well as local businesses and organizations.

We offer sponsorships for certain sections of our publication (like crossword puzzles in print, event calendars in newsletters, etc.), we can accept donations of goods and services, and we accept donations of money. We're also always open to discuss other ideas you might have for ways you can help support The Appalachian.

Your support helps drive our mission to serve our fellow students, faculty, staff, alumni and parents on campus at Appalachian State University, as well as serving the citizens of Boone and the greater High Country area. We also serve regional residents and tourists across four North Carolina and Tennessee counties, who rely on us for news, entertainment and commentary. The Appalachian is totally produced and edited by students, and has been serving the campus and community since 1934.

We appreciate your support!
